"The Evening World's" Corps of Free Physicians to the Rescue.

Inauguration of the Fourth Summer Campaign.

Heart-Melting Stories of the First Week's Experiences.

An Idea of What Is Accomplished With the Sick Babies' Fund.

The fourth Summer campaign of THE EVENING WORLD'S Corps of Free Physicians against disease among the lower poor in the put-up and stifling tenement life of the city, and the reports of the men who devote so much of their professional time and skill to this work of charity are beginning to come in.

They are reports that would harrow up the soul of the gentle mother who watches her babes with anxious eye and lies in hot haste to the family physician on the appearance of the first symptom of an attack from one of the diseases that make childhood so precarious during the soggy, sweating days and nights of summer.

The doctor for 1891 has been re-elected to a man, and each has been assigned by chief M. L. Foster to the same district in which he worked last year. Indeed, many of the doctors are spending their third and some of them their fourth season in their respective districts.

This summer more intelligent and more effective work, the physicians, having familiarized themselves with the make-up of their respective districts, located the deserving poor, and the families of myriad children and helpless women of total ignorance.

Dr. B. K. Vaughn has the lower end of the East River, and Dr. J. H. McKew has the Fourth Ward and part of the seventh. Dr. J. H. McKew, the seventh, Dr. H. Freeman, that part of the east side between Allen and Clinton streets; Dr. J. B. Hallwood, the section east of Clinton street; Dr. J. J. Lipka, the middle ground between Grand and Bowler streets; Dr. S. A. Mason, the section west of Bowler street, and Dr. J. H. McKew, the section east of Bowler street, and Dr. J. H. McKew, the section east of Bowler street.

They visited 424 houses. They called upon and investigated the needs and conditions of 4,980 families. They found 337 sick persons and ministered to them.

They made 29 visits to sick persons who needed more attention.

They heard 10 applications for clothing and other necessities, and these people were cared for.

They furnished food to eleven families whose cupboards were as empty as their purses, and whose children were gaunt and starving.

ton street. A man of scarcely thirty-five years, helpless with consumption, yet moping about the superheated days in the withering atmosphere of a crowded tenement, surrounded by a feeble wife and six little children.

He was dying by inches, where he was; his wife was slowly working herself into an untimely grave in the struggle to keep bread in the house by cleaning downtown business offices, and the children, picked and wan, were slowly starving.

The cupboard was empty, the mother disheartened, for she could at best earn only $15 a month and her strength was fast failing. Groceries enough for a week were supplied to this family, and medicines for the husband and father, while arrangements were made for sending them to a place where they could get invigorating breezes and restoration to health.

Most of the sick children found by THE EVENING WORLD'S physicians are suffering from summer complaints, such as the sprue, food which their ignorant mothers provide from the scanty family purse, and to the fetid air of the crowded tenements.

A day at the seashore by one of the many excursions that leave the city daily and the proper medicine do much for these little unfortunate, and they come back to the city strengthened for another bout with life.

The greatest and most effective work that is done by the physicians in instructing the mothers of these families of little ones how to prepare healthful as well as cheap food for the children; what to do for them in the first stages of the simpler diseases in order that they may not develop more serious ailments; how to clothe them and how to purify the air in their study homes; what not to cook in summer-time; how necessary it is to keep garbage at a distance and to cleanse the living-rooms, air the bedding and bathe the little ones.

Uses of cheap disinfectants are taught, and in many cases the disinfectant is supplied.

The Board of Health has expressed its commendation of THE EVENING WORLD'S Corps of Free Physicians and their work, saying that it is an efficient aid to the work of keeping the city healthy.

Dr. Hubbard, on his rounds, found a heavy-eyed young mother in a top-floor tenement, surrounded by five children, ranging in age from eighteen months to eleven years. She was apparently unoccupied, and when the doctor marveled at this she wearily displayed some faded garments, the result of work which she began at 3 o'clock in the morning.

She was a weak, nervous little creature, and she said:

"My husband is in the Asylum on Ward's Island. He is a good man, but he has yellow jaundice, and in a crazy fit he jumped into the East River. They took him to the asylum, leaving me with the children. I can't do my work here; they are awake in the morning and after they go to bed at night, for they make me wild when they are all awake, and I can't work for the nights. What with the worry over my poor husband and the work and all I am most crazy myself."

What wonder, then, that her creature was burning both ends of her little candle, she was trying to get along with her children in her chair by day and two or three hours' sleep at night.

One of the children was wasting away with scurvy cough, and the baby's eyes were growing hollow from inanition and greasy, stinky milk.

They were all provided for from the Sick Babies' Fund, so generously built up by readers of THE EVENING WORLD. The weary, nervous mother and her little ones will abide a week by the sea, and when they return they will be completely restored.

In Dr. McKew's district was found a father of five children rapidly becoming blind, while his poor wife was unable to leave the house, for the youngest child being a tale of only seven months. The father was earning his living by the street, and he was unable to earn bread for his helpless family by selling newspapers.

Dr. McKew found a little state broad in the house, and the mother said, with anguish in her voice and tears in her eyes:

"We have only had hard bread, which we had to soak in water from the gutter, and the last nine days I don't know what hope there is for us. My husband was never a drinking man, and I don't think he deserves this punishment. Little Bessie is sick, and our oldest boy is only thirteen. He does what he can, helping his father, but I fear we will all starve before he is big and strong enough to earn a living."

Good cheer was given to this most deservingly family. It was plain that the father's eyes were not doomed to eternal blindness, and he was sent to an eye specialist, who will do as much for him in behalf of THE EVENING WORLD'S Sick Babies' Fund charity as he can.

physician's attention to their own little babes, muling with curling stomachs and in the first stages of summer complaint and other ills, due to their unhealthy surroundings.

Not many of these mothers could speak English, but the language of joy and love, like that of sorrow, is universal, and the contributor to THE EVENING WORLD'S Sick Babies' Fund would have shed tears of happiness had he witnessed the weeping of these Physician to the Poor from these chattering, laughing, loving Italian women.

The week developed many colds, much tonsillitis and some bronchitis, and Dr. Vaughan found one family, the father of which, a hard-working man, was helpless with an abscess of the neck, following an injury from a fall from a scaffold; the baby, eight months old, had measles, aggravated by bronchitis, and a three-year-old girl was suffering with a severe case of tonsillitis.

There was not a scrap of food in the house, and the case was desperate—so desperate that the father's recovery was heavily retarded, and care for the children was not to be had.

The father was sent to a hospital for an operation and will be out in a day or two and ready for work again in a week. The family cupboard was filled till it was ready to burst with its store; the proper medicine was left for the sick children, and the two children were taken to the seashore by a good woman who heard their story.

Little Tommy, a Sullivan street six-year-old, was found by Dr. Mason with a broken head and a broken arm, received a few minutes before by a fall from a truck. The family was in abject poverty, but very poor to pay for medical and surgical attendance.

Mr. Mason left Tommy packed in a paper box, smothered in soft muslin, his head in cold packs and his arm resting easily in a sling. He left with a fervent "God bless THE EVENING WORLD doctor!" ringing in his ears.

These are but a few of the cases which THE EVENING WORLD'S Sick Babies' Fund has received, and the season of distress has only just begun in Poverty Row.

It was evident that the Platt forces are in control of the situation and that the Committee would be organized in accordance with Mr. Platt's wishes.

It was said that he has a majority of at least 10 votes on a full ballot.
